The United Family opens application process for 2025 paid summer internship program

LUBBOCK, Texas — The United Family has opened its summer internship application process for full-time college students, recent graduates, and others who qualify until the March 15 deadline.

If selected, the internship will run for 12 weeks during the summer months. The positions are also eligible for full-time pay with up to 40 hours per week — this can vary by position. In addition, applicants can apply for a wide range of areas within The United Family, like marketing, I.T., public relations, accounting, retail operations, learning & development, merchandising, supply chain, finance, and more.

“The United Family offers internship opportunities in a wide range of growing business areas,” said Shannon Miller, EVP of Talent Management for The United Family. “We want prospective applicants to know we have a diverse company full of opportunities in many fields. These internships provide valuable hands-on experience to students across almost any major.”

Internships are not only a great way to secure real-world experience, but they can also lead to real-world opportunities.

Elisabeth Moon, procurement specialist at Llano Logistics and a 2-year team member, said her experience as an intern in 2024 led her to get great hands-on experience, that led her to a full-time job after finishing school. following the completion of her education.

“I was able to learn from many intelligent individuals who helped me expand my knowledge, which gave me the confidence to apply what I learned throughout the internship to my classes at Texas Tech and vice versa,” Moon said. “It was truly a positive experience and has led me to continue with The United Family after graduation.”

Applicants can click here to find the application page — if the application page doesn’t pop up, search “summer” in the keyword search and click on Summer Internship Program. To apply, they must complete the application by submitting a resume, essay, and transcript. More details are available on the application website.
