United Supermarkets and Mrs Baird's team up for 14th annual Teachers on the Rise program

AMARILLO, Texas — On Monday, United Supermarkets and Mrs Baird's kicked off the beginning of the Teachers on the Rise program for the 14th year in Amarillo — an effort by the two companies to recognize local teachers nominated for their work by students.

Every month during the school year, three teachers across Amarillo and surrounding areas are recognized, one from an elementary school, one from a middle school/junior high, and one from a high school. Each winning teacher will receive a $100 gift card from United Supermarkets, a $100 Amazon gift card courtesy of Horse Creek Boutique in Spearman, a restaurant gift card from Tyler's Barbeque in Amarillo and a gift basket full of Mrs Baird's goodies. Each student who nominates a winning teacher will also win a $50 American Express gift card from Mrs Baird's.

At the end of the year, all winning teachers are invited to a banquet where they will have the opportunity to win dozens of door prizes in addition to a $1,000 grand prize.

"We are excited to once again bring recognition to teachers across the Panhandle for the amazing work they do with the children in our communities," said Abie Rampy, director of public relations for United Supermarkets. "We know teachers constantly go above and beyond for children. This is just a small way to show them how much we appreciate them."

"Mrs Baird's is proud to continue our partnership with United Supermarkets for our fourteenth year for Teachers on the Rise," said Shane Sumrow, representative for Mrs Baird's. "Both companies were founded in Texas more than a century ago and honoring teachers is a way to give back to our communities who have given so much to us over the years."
